Mansfield Remembers Fighting Men, Then Sits Back For Its Own Christmas.

SERVICES TONIGHT

11 Churches Prepare to Usher In Holiday With Worship and Song Programs.

Mansfield stood ready today to celebrate its second Christmas of World War II after remembering its fighting men, stationed in all parts of the world, with a mountain of gifts that precipitated the greatest holiday mailing rush ever experienced.

Thousands of packages were sent overseas and thousands of others went to military posts and naval bases in this country in order to give the city's sons and brothers, husbands and sweethearts a Christmas as homelike as possible whether they were located in Buna village, Alaska, Australia or Egypt.

For many American fighting men, Christmas will mean turkey and cranberries and all the rest of the trimmings no matter whether they are at home or overseas. Approximately 5,000,000 pounds of turkey were shipped overseas well in advance of the holiday so that Americans might enjoy an old-fashioned Christmas dinner.

Christmas in Mansfield will be much the same as usual since rationing has worked no actual hardships upon the community. Buses and trains, jammed to capacity by the movement of the military and also the curtailed use of private cars due to gasoline rationing, will bring the bulk of visitors to the city this year. The public generally has turned a deaf ear to the pleas of bus and railroad officials to refrain from holiday travel.

Although there will be vacant chairs at many a table and a few homes will be shrouded by tragedy, Mansfield for the most part will observe the holiday by its customary family gatherings, big dinners and neighborhood calls.

The message of "Peace on earth, good will to men" will echo from pulpit and choir box tonight and again Christmas morning as 11 city churches conduct Yuletide services. The

J. S. Victory Loan Drive Goes Over Top By 2 Billions

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The treasury wound up the greatest war financing campaign in history with a flood of money sending the gigantic Victory Loan drive, first of this war, over the top by more than $2,200,000,000.

The books of the three major issues closed at midnight and Under-Secretary of the Treasury Daniel W. Bell, a broad smile expressing his pleasure, announced at a special press conference late yesterday that preliminary reports indicated subscriptions would total $11,200,000,000 and might even reach $12,000,000,000 when the final check is made.

Never before in the history of this or any other nation, said Bell, has so much money been raised in such a short time—23 days. The nearest approach was in the last war when approximately $6,900,000,000 was raised in the fourth Liberty Loan drive.

As a result, Bell said the treasury probably would not have to go to the public for additional funds until next spring.

AEF Marks Christmas World Over

(By United Press)

BETHLEHEM — American soldiers in olive drab mingled with somberly dressed pilgrims on the six-mile road from Jerusalem today, bound for the midnight service at the Church of the Nativity.

Wartime restrictions reduced to only a few the number of automobiles on the road from Jerusalem and most of the pilgrims, including the doughboys, made the journey to the birthplace of Christ afoot.

War news blared from a loudspeaker in the public square, but the bells of the Church of the Nativity, built on the traditional site of the manger where Christ was born, pealed out the Christmas message in the black-out.

JERUSALEM — Sight-seeing guides experienced a war boom today with American soldiers, some fresh from sorties over the North African battlefronts, observing the Christmas season by visiting the shrines of the Holy Land.

They went by scores to see the holy sepulchre, the wailing wall, Rachel's tomb, the Dead sea, the Sea of Galilee, Jericho and other Biblical scenes near the Holy City.

LONDON—Staff Sgt. Frank Millin of New York, is ready for his first Christmas overseas. Millin will compare the Christmas service at Westminster cathedral with the midnight mass at St. Brendan's church, Brooklyn. His Christmas dinner will be baked ham or pork chops. His outfit voted to give their turkey to the children in British hospitals.

ALLIED NORTH AFRICAN HEADQUARTERS — American doughboys in North Africa are dreaming of a white Christmas—a year from now.

They expect no special Christmas observance, although one Iowa squadron fattened up two turkeys and a pair of geese in their quarters for Christmas dinner. Most of the AEF here, however, will dine on cold mutton.

"How can there be a Christmas party?" a high ranking general asked, "We might be fighting on Christmas."

The men were agreed on three things: They're happier here than in England's cold, damp climate. The French girls "are plenty sharp" and language difficulties are easily overcome. Christmas will be just another day with only routine duties.

SIRTICA, Tripolitania—American fliers at this desert outpost will have makeshift Christmas trees, turkey and a bar for their holiday observance tomorrow.

Sgt. Glenn Eme, jr., 19, of Fort Wayne, Ind., already is preparing the Christmas dinners. Enough turkeys have arrived by air transport to provide a fair helping for each soldier.

Eme and his mates have made up tiny parcels containing toy guns and other trinkets under the substitutes for Christmas trees they have rigged up.

Their bar was fashioned from the wing of a German Messerschmitt-109. It is decorated with holly and real flowers, setting off life-sized crayon drawings of shapely American girls drawn by an artistic member of the squadron.

NEW DELHI, India—Like most Americans here, Sgt. Charles O. (Chili) Hille of Dallas, Tex., looked forward today to his first Christmas away from home but the prospect wasn't too glum.

"I'm starting Christmas with the services under the squadron tree," he said. "Then with gifts and packages from home, I'm going to an Indian home to help a Christian Indian mother and a Brahmin father play Santa Claus for their three little children.

"They're swell people—almost like home folks. They're going to have a big log fire and a Christmas tree. We'll have all the fun—excepting home. I'm going to decorate their tree with a few packages of American chewing gum. They'll love it."

Santa Claus Speaking:

We're partners this, year, Johnny Jones—you and I and Uncle Sam. "Other Christmases, maybe, you didn't think so much about Uncle Sam—his day was the Fourth of July, with fire crackers and parades and bands playing. But this Christmas is different.

"We want you to have just as much fun as ever, Uncle Sam and I. We want you to hang up your stocking on the same mantelpiece and go tip-toe down the stairs at the first streak of dawn to open your presents just like always. We want to be sure you'll have a Christmas next year, too, and the next and the next year, too, until you have children of your very own to hang up their stockings, too.

"That's why you're getting a War Bond or Stamps this Christmas, Johnny, instead of some of the toys and things you wrote down in your letter to me. I figured you'd rather have them than that electric train, when you stopped to think about it.

"You see, Johnny, your War Stamps make you a soldier, too, just like you'd be if you were big enough to shoot a gun or fly a plane or drive a real tank instead of this toy one here. They mean you hold a stake in America. They mean someday you can tell your children, just like this:

"'Yes, Sir! There'll always be a Santa Claus!'"

City Remembers Unfortunate, 300 Get Christmas Baskets

Mansfield remembered its needy with Christmas baskets today through the annual Give-a-Christmas program which supplied baskets to more than 300 families and through contributions from numerous individuals and organizations.

More than 200 baskets were packed and distributed by the Salvation Army which served as a clearing house for the Give-a-Christmas adoption of families this year. One hundred others were delivered directly by individuals and groups participating in the adoption plan and an additional 68 baskets were given away by the Volunteers of America, 43 of which were adopted through the clearing house channels.

Investigations were still being made today by Adjt. Paul Hoffman of the Salvation Army in response to a dozen or more applications for baskets received yesterday afternoon. The Salvation Army itself filled in excess of 60 baskets.

Cash contributions for the Give-a-Christmas amounted to $937, Hoffman said, including a check for $625 presented by the Dominion Electrical company to cover 125 baskets. Close to $100 remaining in the treasury from the Give-

FDR GREETING

President Talks To Nation To Start Christmas Observance.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Yuletide greetings from President Roosevelt will launch the nation today on a somber observance of another wartime Christmas as the thoughts of those at home turn to the million boys in fighting stations abroad and the millions of others in army and navy posts in the United States.

As with many another home, the four sons in the nation's first family were away at war. Only two of the 12 Roosevelt grandchildren came to the White House to share the president's Christmas.

The chief executive arranged to exchange traditional greetings with the White House staffs during the day, before broadcasting his Christmas message at the national tree ceremonies.

In keeping with the nation-wide effort to curtail the use of electricity, light on the national tree—a tall spruce on the White House lawn—were omitted and the ceremony was advanced to daylight hours.

'SANTA' PAYS BILLS

NORWALK — (AP) — Santa dropped in on the 550 customers of nearby Monroeville's electric plant today and left December's bills marked paid. The average was $4.50, although some commercial users owed $200 or more.

NO YULE SNOW

Weatherman Forecasts Rain and Warmer Weather.

Ohio's weatherman today appeared stubbornly set against a White Christmas for Mansfield, predicting somewhat warmer temperatures with occasional light rains tonight.

With the holiday shopping rush nearing its end, much of last week's heavy snowfall has vanished, much to the pleasure and safety of motorists but to the chagrin of those enjoying coasting courses and skating arenas.

Little change in temperature is forecast for the Christmas holiday.

FIRST DIM-OUT NEAR FOR CITY

Civilian Defense Heads Map Preliminary Test, With Blackout In Offing.

With its first test mobilization of civilian defense organizations out of the way, dim-outs are next for Mansfield and after them will come the city's first blackout.

The dim-out tests will be confined to the municipal area, in preparation for state-wide blackouts, scheduled for March.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, contemplates delegating additional duties to chiefs of services and the creation of a speaker's bureau, with qualified lecturers carrying the need of a more adequate home defense into every Mansfield household through appearances before group meetings.

OH, BOY!

Hey, Kids, WPB Says There's Serious Shortage of Castor Oil.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The War Production board today struck a popular chord with the young folks of the land by announcing that there is a serious shortage of castor oil.

The unpleasant tasting oil which often is forced down Junior's throat after too much indulgence in food, candy and nuts on Christmas day, also has important commercial uses.

PLAN 'A MEN' TO CHECK ON NEW BUDGET

Congress Leaders Agree To Keep Close Check on All Fund Requests.

WOULD HIRE AUDITORS

Special Staff Recommended To Serve Under U. S. Comptroller General.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders have reached an agreement to subject the 1943 appropriations requests to the most thorough scrutiny ever accorded a governmental budget and they are now organizing a special staff to conduct the auditing.

The final details were disclosed today by an authoritative congressional spokesman who said that a series of conferences have produced the following results:

1. A decision to create a staff of auditors who will be known as "A Men" and who will be the direct agents of the house appropriations committee.

2. To eliminate all possibility of "favoritism" or exertion of "political pressure" by members of congress themselves, the staff will be appointed by the comptroller general and will have its headquarters in the general accounting office.

3. The staff will consist of eight fiscal experts, and a special act of congress will be passed giving them "priority" status to prevent other agencies of the government from mandating their services.

The program was perfected by a special subcommittee consisting of Reps. Cannon (D) Mo., chairman, Woodrum (D) Va., and Taber (R) N. Y., the three top-ranking members of the house appropriations committee, and has the support and approval of speaker Rayburn.

The decision of congressional leaders to adopt the plan is said to have been speeded by the November elections and the prospect of a record-breaking $100,000,000,000 budget next year.

The comptroller general is an agent of congress, but is appointed by the president under the 1922 budget act creating the office. That act also contained authority to create just such a staff of committee auditors as is now being set up, but until this year congress had never availed itself of this type of service.

She Felt $1,500 Richer Just for A Few Moments

A Mansfield girl felt richer by $1,500 for a moment or two last night when the name of Marjorie Boals was called at "bank night" in the three Warner Bros., theaters last night.

By the time she reached the stage of the Madison theater, however, it was discovered that her address, 568 Highland avenue, did not coincide with that on the announced registration card. Another Marjorie Boals was also registered, this one with an address listed at 234 West Sixth street.

The person eligible for the award was not in any of the three theaters, neither had she registered in the afternoon and she also held no insurance. So neither she nor the other young lady who bore the same name were able to share in the award. Marjorie Boals, whose name was called, is Mrs. H. Mervin Boals, 250 Poplar street.

EGGS MISSING

Judge Orders Destruction of Adulterated Bags of Noodles.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Federal Judge Robert C. Blatzell ordered destroyed 1,700 bags of "pure egg noodles" shipped from Mrs. Kelly's noodle kitchen, Xenia, O.

A federal trade commission action charged the noodles were adulterated because eggs had been "wholly or in part" omitted from the product.

Capture Eight More Towns In Mid-Don Drive

Threaten to Trap Million Axis Troops In 12 to 18-Mile Daily Advance; Ukraine Thrust Pushes Ahead; Yanks Land at Dakar.

(By Associated Press)

Russia's armies hemmed the key German rail citadel of Millerovo on three sides today, captured at least eight more towns and listed 44,000 Nazis killed and 37,600 taken prisoner since the great Soviet drive across the middle Don steppes began nine days ago.

Millerovo lies only 120 miles north of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, whose capture would seal off the land escape route of approximately 1,000,000 Axis troops fighting in southern Russia.

German field headquarters gave this terse summary of the vast and critical struggle:

"In the Don area, the defense battle continues. Between the Volga and the Don, Bolshevist counter-attacks collapsed."

Front-line dispatches to the Soviet newspaper Pravda said the Germans were retreating in wild disorder in at least one sector. As they fled, the Nazis left 17 undamaged Messerschmitt fighting planes on an airfield.

In a series of war bulletins, the Red army command declared that Col.-Gen. N. F. Vatutin's forces, hitting a pace of 12 to 18 miles daily, had seized three towns in an arc threatening Millerovo with encirclement.

At the same time, the hard-driving Red armies widened their sweep back into the Ukraine and Soviet vanguards were pictured as having already advanced within 150 miles of Kharkov, the "Ukraine Pittsburgh," in a lunge which has carried them 200 miles west of Stalingrad.

Adolf Hitler's frantic attempts to stem the Russian tide by throwing masses of reserves into the struggle were declared by Russian headquarters to have failed.

A thousand Nazi troops threw up their hands in surrender at one point, the Soviet command reported.

While Hitler's invasion armies huddled miserably in the snows on this day before Christmas, facing a bleaker and more perilous winter even than a year ago, Pope Pius XII in broadcasting a yuletide message again voicing a desire for peace, based on "unity and love" within each nation.

"First, whoever wants peace

STRAINED: U. S. Angry as Finns Attend Jap Pearl Harbor Party

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—America's diplomatic relations with Finland today were under a severe strain as a result of the attendance by Finnish government leaders at a Japanese Pearl Harbor anniversary celebration party in Helsinki.

The Finnish legation in Washington sought to explain away the incident by asserting that the Finnish leaders did not realize what they were getting into when they accepted an invitation to attend the Japanese party.

However, information received by the American government revealed that leading members of the Finnish government, including the prime minister and foreign minister, not only attended the party, but one of them congratulated the Japanese on their sneak attack against Pearl Harbor.

In the latter connection, the Finnish legation statement issued early today said the Helsinki government has "no knowledge about alleged congratulations addressed by any of its members to the Japanese minister."

The Finnish legation statement also to justify the Finnish leaders' attendance at the party by saying that "from the Finnish point of view there is no reason to decline invitation to social events arranged by foreign legations in Helsinki."

The attitude of the American government, however, is that alleged parties where the Japanese or the Germans show films of their victories are not social events, but propaganda.

Finland's participation in such parties is considered a breach of the neutrality which it has repeatedly professed a desire to maintain in the wider aspects of

DOOMED: Soviet General Sees End of Foe In Don River Bend

(Editor's Note: In his fourth dispatch from the Stalingrad front which he alone among foreign correspondents in Russia has visited, Henry Shapiro, United Press Moscow manager, interviews the Red army commander in chief northwest of Stalingrad.)

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STALINGRAD FRONT, Dec. 22 — (Via Moscow) — (Delayed)—Maj. Gen. I. N. Christiakov, commander in chief of the Red army on the northwest-Stalingrad front, said today that the 22 German divisions trapped in the Don river bend are doomed.

His voice rising above the blast of the white-painted camouflaged guns outside his dugout-cave in the side of a ravine, Christiakov pointed toward the German lines a mile and a half away and said: "They are trapped. They can not escape. Our immediate objective is to destroy them.

"The Germans have lost the initiative on all fronts. They are worse prepared for the winter campaign on this front than they were last winter, despite Hitler's boasts.

"German morale at present is lower than at any time since the war started. And wait until real winter comes!

"Victory for us on this whole front is inevitable."

This optimism I found all the

BARUCH GIVES $1,000,000 IN BONDS FOR YULE

Army, Navy Relief, Many Other Charities Benefit From Big Christmas Gift.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Bernard M. Baruch, the financier, is distributing one million dollars in United States government bonds to several organizations dealing with war relief work and other charitable enterprises.

This was revealed exclusively to International News Service today by Baruch who said that he already has issued orders to the Central Hanover Bank & Trust company in New York to make the distribution.

Army relief and navy relief each will receive $200,000 through the generosity of Baruch, the "czar" of production during World war I who has been working more or less behind the scenes as an advisor to President Roosevelt during the current global conflict.

These were the largest of the gifts by Baruch who was reluctant to make known his philanthropies. His directions for distribution of the money disclosed that he only recently purchased the bonds.

Others who will benefit and the amount in each case:

United States maritime commission headed by Admiral Land $100,000.

American Red Cross $100,000.

Allen Wardwell, treasurer of the Russian Relief society, or his accredited representative $100,000.

United China Relief on order of Mrs. Henry Luce $100,000.

British War Relief Society, Inc., $100,000.

American Friends Service committee, Philadelphia, $20,000.

Joint Distribution committee, New York, $20,000.

American committee for Christian refugees, New York, $10,000.

Catholic committee for refugees of Germany, New York, $5,000.

Unitarian service committee, Boston, $5,000.

In his instructions to the bank Baruch specified that the remaining "$10,000 will be specifically earmarked later."

His communication disclosed no particular reason for the gifts.

Military drill and regular periods of calisthenics are proving they rapidly improve the appearance and are conducive of better health for boys, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, declared today as he completed the annual physical examination of students at Madison high school. "In the early fall when examinations were begun," Dr. Wild said, "many boys slouched in their walk, their postures were awkward, rounded shoulders hampered their breathing and there was a dullness of attitude. Al Fendrick, athletic director, started a program of regular class hours for military foot drill and calisthenics. In the recent examinations the boys were snappy in their walk, stood erect and everyone exhibited an active interest in an improved way of living through healthful exercise."

WOULD HELP INDEPENDENT GAS DEALERS

Officials See Move To Give Everyone Minimum Margin of Three Cents.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The office of price administration, it was learned today, may act soon to boost gasoline prices for many independent filling stations throughout the nation in order to help them offset loss of revenue due to rationing.

The OPA is expected to duplicate the action it took along the eastern seaboard last spring and authorize filling stations all over the country to charge a minimum of three cents per gallon above the cost of gasoline to them.

Although most stations operate at a higher margin, hundreds of independent sellers have been selling gasoline at margins below three cents, it was said.

At the same time, it was reported that gasoline dealers in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia have petitioned OPA for an increase in their margin of profit to offset losses caused by recent drastic ration reductions.

The margin along the Atlantic seaboard is said to vary from three and four cents to five cents in some localities.

Meantime, railroad representatives have been summoned to confer with James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, next Tuesday to explore possibilities for increasing tank-car shipments of petroleum into the eastern shortage zone.

Prior to the Byrnes announcement, Eastman had tightened controls on operation of tank cars, including their loading and unloading by shippers, in order to boost rail movement of petroleum to the Atlantic seaboard by at least 20 per cent.

The ODT chief called upon the railroads to deliver a "minimum" of 900,000 barrels of petroleum daily into the east, compared with recent shipments of approximately 750,000 barrels.

CAPTURE ENDS 7-YEAR SEARCH

FBI Arrests Suspect In Two Ohio Bank Robberies Netting $80,000.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A seven-year search for John Christopher Abele, 40, accused by the FBI of participating in two Ohio bank robberies netting a total of $80,000, was ended today.

The FBI, in announcing Abele's arrest yesterday, reported the fugitive had been accepted in many communities as a law-abiding citizen and dog fancier and that his French bulldog "Captain Beauvaire" won a ribbon at the 1939 Dayton kennel show.

An FBI statement declared Abele, apprehended on the outskirts of Savannah, Ga., is under indictment at Cleveland on a charge of participating in the $26,000 robbery of the Farmers National bank at Salem, O., in 1935 and claimed he took part in the $54,000 holdup of two employes of the Springfield First National bank and Trust company, five weeks earlier.

Michael Beaver of Memphis, Tenn., was convicted of the Springfield holdup in which Abele and Roy Douglas Brown participated, sharing the loot with Lee Elliott McVoy, the FBI asserted.

McVoy was imprisoned in 1938 for participating with three others in the Salem robbery and Brown still is at large.

The statement asserted: "Living under various aliases, Abele and his wife have from time to time been accepted by many communities as respectable, law abiding citizens and have been associated with golf and country clubs."

CHANGES FROM CHOIR ROBE TO WEDDING DRESS AFTER SERVICE

WILLARD—The annual Christmas eve midnight candlelight services at Grace Methodist church will have an unexpected climax this year.

At the close of the service, Miss Phyllis Haines, director of music for the church who arranged and will direct the program, will change from a choir robe to a white wedding gown and will become the bride of William Ansel, navy musician, shortly after midnight.

The wedding was arranged quickly, soon after Ansel returned to his home here on a 10-day leave. He has been recently stationed on the west coast, but was at Pearl Harbor when that American base was attacked more than a year ago and also saw action in the battle of Midway.

When he arrived home, he and his fiancee, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Edward Haines, quickly arranged to be married at the conclusion of the candlelight service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ansel, Willard.

Ansel has been in the navy for more than five years, and has now been assigned to a land station at the University of Oklahoma. Miss Hughes, who is also director of music in Willard junior high school, will continue her teaching until the end of the school year in May and will then join her husband.

Bridesmaids for the ceremony will be Joyce Young, member of the Grace church choir and best man will be Dale Stearns, Willard, now of the Naval Reserve and now stationed in Detroit.

DECISION IN CASE DELAYED

Judge, Attorneys to Look Over Heath Documents.

Speeding up the Plymouth divorce and property settlement case of Grace Heath against Earl W. Heath to permit all evidence and arguments to be completed by the end of yesterday's session of common pleas court, decision still had to be delayed by Judge C. H. Huston until further exhibits were produced.

Attys. W. F. Black, representing the plaintiff, and Don Young, of Norwalk, the defendant, will confer with the judge early in January and with him will examine contents of a lock box in the Plymouth bank where documents figuring in the case are kept.

Only three witnesses, associates in the Fate-Root-Heath company of Plymouth, of which he is sales manager, were called besides the defendant in an attempt to refute testimony presented by many witnesses for the plaintiff in support of her allegations of extreme cruelty and gross neglect.

AEF TO WORK ON CHRISTMAS

But Soldiers in England Will Find Time for Youngsters' Parties.

LONDON (AP) American soldiers in the British Isles will work as usual Christmas day, but there will be time for nearly all to participate in hundreds of "kid parties," dinners and dances, or to accept some among the deluge of holiday invitations from Britons.

Uncle Sam's boys are giving thousands of British youngsters their first Christmas since the war began. Nearly every U. S. outfit is giving a party for children complete with Santa Claus, a tree, toys, and candy saved in most cases from the men's own rations.

Civilian aircraft technicians in Ireland made $10,000 worth of toys from scrap material.

TROOP HONORS SCOUTMASTER

Scouts Present Leader With Watch at Party.

After serving for nine years as scoutmaster of Troop 6, J. R. Turner was honored last night at the regular meeting in the block house when approximately 50 Scouts presented him with a wrist watch and scroll on which were the engraved names of boys in his troop since 1938.

Presentation of the gift and the speech of appreciation was made by Ralph C. Stanton, troop committeeman. Other committeemen present to take part in the activity were Robert Black, L. F. Rondell, L. L. Shawber and Ray Turner, assistant scoutmaster.

Before receiving his surprise gifts, Turner told a Christmas story as a part of the troop's program. Several alumni members helped buy the watch and a few of them were present for the meeting.

PRICES SOAR

Clerks Apologize as Britain Has Most Expensive Yule.

LONDON — (U.P.) — This will be Great Britain's most expensive Christmas. Prices soared so high at the last minute that shopgirls, in some instances, were apologizing to shoppers today.

It was almost impossible to buy turkeys or chickens and difficult to purchase fish for the Christmas table. A bottle of whiskey cost $9.20 in some shops. Champagne sold at $16 a bottle and brandy at $24.

Flimsy toys were priced so high that officials indicated there would be an investigation of alleged profiteering.

Even a sprig of mistletoe cost 40 cents, the equivalent of a day's pay for a Wren or a Waaf who might want to be kissed.

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

This is Rex (Santa Claus) Hess, the old Podger, reading the Christmas greeting card mail.

And first to greet my merry eye is a card signed:

"Irene and Bill Reinka."

"Ah ha," beams old Saint (Sport Podge) Nick. "What's this? Something new has been added. 'Twas just plain Bill Reinka the last time I heard. Let's rustle up a sockful of congratulations for the Reinkas."

Wee Willie the former Mansfield Brave Reinka writes that although he enlisted as an army air corps cadet last summer, he is still waiting for the call to service, expected ear in the new year.

Bill didn't play pro ball last summer, but he did play with the Detroit Class "A" Automobile club of Michigan, which won the Detroit title and went on to cop the world amateur championship in September at Youngstown.

"Hope all is well down in Mansfield," says Reinka.

That's right, Bill. All is well down. If it's baseball you're speaking of.

And from Bob Moorhead, former Westbrook Country club golf champion, who writes from Camp Atterbury, Indiana:

"Hi Chicken — how's the Hodge Podge? This isn't the kind of weather we play golf in, but I sure would like to try it. Remember when I missed that 6-inch putt on No. 3 against Zediker? I swore I'd quit the game, but sure would like to give it another whirl now."

Where does he get that chicken? I wasn't scared of that 6-inch putt.

Oh, yes. It's Corporal R. W. Moorhead now. Also comes a card from Pvt. Chuck Saprano at Camp Atterbury.

And here are a couple cards from a couple of cards named Joe. And both in the air corps. Joe Atton, the old Mansfield baseball catcher, sends a very clever greeting card with a picture of Joe Atton himself, all dressed up in flying togs, and leaning on the propeller of a plane.

And Joe Lesch, former manager of Yuncker Sports athletic teams sends the word from Waco, Texas: "Just arrived at advanced twin engine school. Still going O. K."

A card from Pvt. Bob Ankrum at Camp Barkeley, Texas, asks: "How they going, Rex?" Robert, m'boy, like Mr. Five By Five, that's hard to tell. There's no way of knowin' whether he's comin' or he's goin'.

From Chief Specialist Ed Challam out in Los Alamitos, Calif., comes "Greetings and good wishes to all there from yours truly. Hope it's a white Christmas there because I'll sure be dreaming of it. Hope to see the Rose Bowl and still like Georgia — have seen U. C. L. A. in every home game and they are a game team, but if Georgia puts out they won't stand a chance. Buy strictly from the "T." Take it easy. Chat."

These are just a few of the cards that have come to this desk. I've picked them out because of the service angle.

I've already sent my Christmas greetings to all the boys in service through that recent service edition of the News-Journal, but there's no day like the day before Christmas to repeat them.

So to them, and to all the rest of you at home a very merry Christmas.

PICKARD HANGS UP PRO GOLF STICKS

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Professional golf is swell and Henry Picard has won 30 major tournaments and a wad of prize money at the game but he's hanging up his shooting irons for good in favor of raising hogs on his South Carolina farm.

Now 36, Picard explains he won't be any younger when the war is over and major golf tournaments are resumed.

"Even if I could get back to top form after the war, I'd still be away from home and my family," he said.

Rose Bowl Interest Does Flop

Restricted Ticket Sale Limited to Nearby Fans.

By LEO H. PETERSEN

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—The annual pre-game bear stories began coming out of the lackadaisical Rose Bowl city today and one of them vitally interested the Georgia football team.

Its star all-America backfield ace, Frankie Sinkwich, was hobbling around on two bad ankles and everyone from the Georgia water boy to Coach Wally Butts feared the worst, although Sinkwich tried to put them at rest.

"I'll play if I have to use crutches," he said, indicating that even that assistance would not be necessary.

He twisted his right ankle during an offensive forward passing drill yesterday and had to be helped from the field. He injured his left ankle a week ago today as the team went through its final drill before boarding the train at Athens, Ga., for Pasadena.

To the west, some 35 miles away, the University of California at Los Angeles didn't seem concerned over reports of Sinkwich's injury. They figured it was just another one of those stories that the opposing team brings to throw opponents off guard.

"We still are drilling to stop Sinkwich," Coach Babe Horrell said. "If he doesn't show up, we can switch our plans."

But Sinkwich or no Sinkwich, the populace appeared little interested in the game. Ticket sales, restricted under office of defense transportation recommendations to residents of the vicinity, were slow and prospects were that the crowd would be something like 10,000 short of the 93,000 Rose Bowl capacity.

There may be a pick-up in demand because Pasadena, with its 90,000 citizens, was becoming Georgia-conscious.

There were Georgia banners all over town. The townsfolks gathered to see Sinkwich and his mates, but whether they would shell out the necessary cash to see them play the Bruins was something else.

Globe Steel Takes Lead

Westies Stage Upset Over Athletic Supply.

City league cagers swung into action again last night with Globe Steel grabbing undisputed possession of first place with a 40 to 25 triumph over Yuncker sports. Westinghouse, defending champs edged the Athletic supplies 37 to 35 in the nightcap.

The Steelers built up an 11 to 5 lead in the first quarter and won going away. They increased their advantage to 19 to 9 at halftime and led 26 to 14 entering the final stanza. Prion tossed in ten points to pace the winners while Dick Roberts had seven for the losers.

The Westinghouse-Supply tussle was nip and tuck all the way with the lead changing four times in the last quarter. The Westies grabbed an 8 to 4 advantage in the first stanza, led 16 to 14 at the half and 26-25 at the end of the third. Howie Poole, sharpshooting Westinghouse forward, tossed in two buckets in the final minute of play to decide the issue.

The league resumes play Tuesday with Yunckers meeting the Athletic Supply and Westinghouse battling Globe Steel.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Looks as if 80-year-old Connie Mack had younger ideas than most of the gents who run major league ball clubs. . . . Connie Mack was, as usual, a thought ahead when he moved the Athletics out of California and into Savannah, Ga., which is a lot nearer home and was a good enough training spot when the A's won the 1911 pennant.

A STICKLER FOR ETIQUETTE.

Our most vivid recollection of the late Chris Cagle is a story told by a photographer who went to West Point to get some action pictures of the great redhead. . . . He wanted one pose showing how Cagle straight-armed tacklers and Red obligingly stuck out his arm. . . . Just before the shutter clicked, Red interrupted. "Wait a minute; that isn't right." . . . And he clenched his fist in the approved manner for a straight-arm that hurts the tackler and not the runner.

TURNABOUT.

When Burke M. Gillespie deserted the sports desk of the Council Bluffs, Ia., Nonpareil to volunteer for the armed services (he was the first volunteer out of Council Bluffs) Frank Lane took over the sports editing task. . . . After a year in service, Sgt. Gillespie returned to his job when Lane enlisted in the navy reserves as a photographer. . . . Lane spent about eight months in the navy at Norfolk, Va., and in the air corps at Sioux City, Ia., then was sent home on leave. . . . A few weeks later Gillespie was recalled to active duty.

Eddie Mahan, the old Harvard football . . . Tee Branca, Salt Lake City golf pro now stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., sends this word: "I'm a little ragged on the drills, but that's to be expected. I'm a southpaw and they make me right-shoulder arms."

Galento Planning Ring Comeback

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Fat Tony Galento, who has restricted his activities to operating a cocktail lounge since being stopped by Buddy Baer in April, 1941, announced he will open his ring comeback six weeks from today.

Galento went through a 12-round workout at Stillman's gymnasium to inaugurate his return to the ring and said he was not interested in any interim title and would wade through the current crop of heavies like a tank.

"I want to fight that Louis for nothing in a big benefit bout," Galento said. "I almost knocked him out in 1939 and I'll finish the job this time."

AKRON ZIPPERS WIN OVER HEIDELBERG

AKRON — (U.P.) — Akron university's Zippers defeated the Heidelberg Student Princes 48-39 last night in the only game scheduled in the Ohio college basketball circuit.

The victory gave Akron a season record of four victories against two defeats and made the third game in a row the Zippers have won. Heidelberg's record for the season now stands at two victories and three losses.

Georgia Wants To Make Amends

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Here is the latest Hollywood publicity stunt:

The Georgia football team has invited Rita Hayworth to have dinner at its training quarters to make up for what has been termed an insult to the screen actress.

The story goes that two members of the Georgia squad asked Miss Hayworth to come out of her compartment on the train en route west while her hair was disheveled and she was dressed in sheer pajamas.

She reported was quite put out about it so the Georgia team, not being able to separate the chaff from the wheat, decided it would be best no matter what came of it to invite Miss Hayworth to dinner and offer its apologies, if they were in order.

So far Miss Hayworth has neither accepted nor rejected the invitation.

LEADING PRO GROUND GAINERS IN GAME

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — The three leading ground gainers of the National Professional Football league will be in the all-stars lineup when the team meets the champion Washington Redskins at Shibe park on Sunday.

They are Bill Didley, Pittsburgh Steelers; Merlyn Condit, Brooklyn Dodgers, and Gary Famighette, Chicago Bears.

Ted Williams Leads In RBI

Gets Most Bases on Balls In American League.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox was the leader, without a close rival, in batting in runs and receiving bases on balls during the 1942 American league season, official statistics showed today. Thus Ted had these honors to add to his leading batting average of .356 and his high totals of 141 runs scored and 36 home runs.

The nearest anyone came to catching Williams in runs batted in was Joe Di Maggio of New York, who had 114. Other high men were Charlie Keller of New York, 108, Joe Gordon of New York, 103, and Bobby Doerr of Boston, 102.

Di Maggio was the top man last year with 125 and Williams was fourth with 120 behind Cleveland Jeff Heath's 123 and Keller's 122.

Williams received 145 bases on balls, with the next best marks being 114 by Keller and 106 by Les Fleming of Cleveland.

Gordon, Yankee second baseman, struck out the most times, 95, and grounded into double plays the most times, 22. Keller, in hitting into twin killings only five times, tied the league record for the fewest in 150 or more games.

The Yankees, in their surge to the league pennant, won the team title for runs batted in with 744. The Red Sox tied the league record for hitting into the fewest double plays with 94 over the season. The Philadelphia Athletics, who hit into five twin killings in one game against the Yankees Aug. 14, are believed to have set a new record.

Louis Teaches Army Fighters

Swings Into Action In Three Rings Each Night.

By FRANK HOOD

FORT RILEY, Kas. — (AP) — The financial-minded gentry among Cauliflower Row, who used to watch Joe Louis lay his million-dollar crown on the line almost every month and then inquire naively, "What's the percentage?" —ought to see the heavyweight champ now.

Sergeant Joe dons the padded mittens each night and swings into action in not one, but three rings. It's all part of his new assignment as boxing instructor at his calvary replacement training center.

The sight of such a valuable piece of fistic bricabrac performing regularly before a capacity house—for free—would shock veteran fight promoters and hangers-on, but Joe loves it.

The old dead-pan, generally a shade more voluable than the Sphinx, actually waxes enthusiastic about his new job.

"This is what I wanta do," declares Joe. "Besides bein' good for their condition, it shows soldiers how to take care of themselves.

"Maybe they might get in a jam without their guns, and knowin' how to use their fists might come in pretty handy in dealin' with one of them Japs or Germans."

More than 500 troopers flocked to call when headquarters announced the heavyweight titlist would conduct a series of boxing classes. Three rings go full blast every night until taps stops the raps. Joe and his assistants, former Golden Gloves, give frequent demonstrations.

Louis doesn't think much of the current professional boxing crop. "All the good boys are in the service," he says, "and them guys who are contenders now mostly are just third-raters."

Florida Misses Big League Clubs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Florida is going to miss having the major league baseball clubs down next spring but it's worth the disappointment if it helps win the war, "Sunshine" Al Lang, the state's ambassador of baseball, said today.

The former mayor of St. Petersburg, who made his enthusiasm as a baseball fan pay dividends for the whole state, was directly or indirectly responsible for bringing a dozen big league teams to Florida for training last spring.

Big welcomes had been planned for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants, who have prepped here in recent years. Today the training grounds of the Cards and Yanks are being used as drill fields for Uncle Sam's soldiers.

The two top flight teams of 1942 have joined the exodus of major leaguers away from the warmer climes of Florida and California, and, with others, are shopping for sites farther north. Training camp changes followed a suggestion by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, that baseball clubs should reduce travel as much as possible.

"If it will help win the war, we can graciously give up our teams," said Lang. "We've got to get in there and pitch against the Axis, and you can bet that baseball is ready to do its part.

"We know that we will win the war and that baseball will come back to Florida."

JUNIORS DEFEATED

AEF OBSERVES YULE TODAY ALL AROUND WORLD

From New Guinea's Blistering Sun to Alaska's Snow, It's Christmas for Service Men.

pects are brighter than last year, when the holiday followed the Pearl Harbor attack by only 18 days. Fighting men will remain at battle stations throughout the Pacific, but holiday traditions of turkey dinners and Christmas messages from their officers will be maintained. The officers will supplant the timeless phrase, "peace on earth, good will toward men," with the theme of "fight now—and peace on earth after the Japs are licked."

HEADQUARTERS, Alaska Defense Command—American servicemen will hold Christmas services and parties with Canadian forces tomorrow in desolate areas where only a year ago there was nothing but wilderness with an occasional Indian, Eskimo or wandering trapper passing through.

Chaplain and United Service Organizations officials were busy with plans today and the quartermaster corps was coping with the enormous task of providing "dinners like Mom's" for the forces, most of whom were spending their first Yuletide away from home.

The Royal Canadian air force, following an old custom, will have its Christmas dinner provided and served by its commissioned officers who will wait on the enlisted men.

CAIRO—Softball games, Christmas trees and religious services will highlight the holiday observances of the American armed forces in the middle east tomorrow and every man will get a pound of beef or chicken and American beer for his special Christmas dinner. Transport planes interrupted their shuttling of supplies long enough to haul more than 18 tons of fresh beef. Because of battlefront restrictions against light, the desert forces will have no midnight services but will hold religious meetings tomorrow morning.

The air force "varsity" meets Cairo's famed Gezira softball club tomorrow afternoon and there will be a variety show featuring local radio and stage performers. American nurses will hold open house.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — Christmas under New Guinea's blistering sun will be just another working day to AEF forces fighting the Japanese under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's personal command. Most Americans have received something from the planeloads of Christmas packages arriving here during recent weeks.

HONOLULU — Sgt. Foreman Thompson, jr., 23, of Muskogee, Okla., expressed the sentiments of the servicemen in Hawaii today.

"I'm happy the people at home can enjoy Christmas for the same reason we can't," he said. "We've got a job to finish before Christmas can again have the proper significance. It's for such things as Christmas in the typical American way of life that we're fighting. The whole spirit of Christmas is incompatible with the Jap and German philosophy."

BACK FOR CHRISTMAS

SHELBY—Pvt. Ralph L. Benedict, who is with the Quartermaster corps of the army air corps at Lockbourne field, Columbus, will be at home for Christmas. His parents are Patrolman and Mrs. W. A. Benedict, 33 Park avenue. Pvt. Benedict's wife lives with his parents.

TUPPS HEADS COUNCIL

GALION — Lester Tupps was elected president of the Sandusky Township Farm Bureau council at a recent meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chambers east of Galion. Harold McCune is discussion leader and Mrs. Calvin Beach, secretary-treasurer.

The picture begins its showing Friday and continues through a midnight performance. The cast includes Charles Coburn, Hattie McDaniel and Lee Patrick.

Aldrich Escapade.

By not sticking to the campus for news for his school publication Henry Aldrich again finds himself in hot water in the Madison attraction, "Henry Aldrich, Editor," opening today to play through Saturday. Because he is over-zealous in reporting an outside fire he involves the school in a law suit and is also arrested for arson. Jimmy Lydon has the role of the hero and Rita Quigley plays Henry's girl friend. John Litel and Olive Blakeney are in the cast. "Mugtown" the second picture has Little Tough Guys and the Dead End Kids in the leads.

Robert Young and Jeanette MacDonald are co-starred in "Cairo," a musical film opening Christmas day at the Ritz. The picture pokes fun at Hollywood's conception of spy dramas and gives Ethel Waters, famed colored singer and actress, a featured role. Miss MacDonald plays an American movie star stranded in Europe at the outbreak of the war and Young appears as a newspaper reporter in Cairo. The two meet and each believes the other to be a spy. Mona Barrie and Lionel Atwill are in the cast. Richard Dix in "Tombstone," is the second attraction.

Hilarious Comedy.

The hilarious story of two Ohio girls who seek fame and fortune as a writer and an actress on Broadway is depicted in "My Sister Eileen," the Park attraction opening today. Based on Ohioian Ruth McKenney's popular book and later the stage play the picture stars Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair as the sisters and Brian Aherne as the publisher who solves part of their problems. Their abode in Greenwich Village is a habitat for an assortment of people played by Allyn Joslyn, George Tobias, June Havoc and Donald McBride. "About Face," a Hal Roach comedy of the "Tanks a Million" series, is the co-feature.

STOCK MARKET SEARCHES FOR DEFINITE TREND

Merchandising Shares Given Prop By Reports of Record Spending.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market searched unsuccessfully for a trend in today's early transactions.

At a fairly active opening minor advances were posted for Phelps Dodge, Goodyear, Sperry, Anaconda and U. S. Steel. Offside fractionally were Union Carbide, American Can, Bethlehem, Loew's, Glenn Martin and Goodrich.

Reports of record retail spending throughout the nation served as a prop for merchandising shares, notwithstanding dwindling inventories and doubts regarding replenishment of supplies in coming months.

Holders of oils noted the survey of the American Petroleum institute disclosing the country's gasoline stocks at end of the previous week rose 1,509,000 barrels with fuel oils decreased 1,914,000 barrels.

RITES SUNDAY

Homer Sweet Was Lifelong Resident of Willard.

WILLARD—Homer Sweet, 73, lifelong resident of Willard and vicinity, died last night in Municipal hospital after a brief illness. The body is at the Fink funeral home where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Sunday, Rev. Paul W. Sharp of the United Brethren church officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

The only near relative surviving is Clarence Sweet, a nephew, who returned to Willard yesterday from Bowling Green where funeral services for his mother, Mrs. Hattie Sweet, were conducted.

TOTS TRAPPED

Children Die in Fire While Parents Attend Church.

PEORIA, Ill.—(UP)—Four small children were trapped in a second floor bedroom and burned to death in their home last night while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robison were attending church services.

The bodies of James, 6, Richard, 4, Winifred, 3, and Mary, 2, were all found in the same bedroom. One body was found under a bed, indicating the child had made an attempt to escape from the flames.

FIRST DIM-OUT NEAR FOR CITY

Civilian Defense Heads Map Preliminary Test, With Blackout In Offing.

hood of continental air raids inflicting terrible tolls on Mansfield as well as coastal cities," Judge Kalbfleisch explained. "The public must lose its complacency and quit viewing the possibility of such attack more or less as a joke. The danger is far more vital and nearer than most of us wish to admit."

Tentative plans call for a publicity research agency which will equip the speakers with certain facts. The speakers will be charged with each preparing a speech treating specific subjects and each in turn will be asked to appear before various groups in a fixed rotation.

More enrollees are needed in some of the war protection units, Judge Kalbfleisch said, and a call likely will go out soon for volunteers. At the Dec. 6 test mobilization more than 1200 trained air raid wardens and members of other services responded to a siren alert at 7 p. m. within 16 minutes.

Dim-outs unoubtedly will be ordered by the state defense council for January and February in preparation for the blackout tests, Kalbfleisch said. All conditions of a blackout will prevail in these dim-out tests with the exceptions that traffic will not be halted and war industries will not be hampered.

Residences will be blacked out, as will all non-essential buildings, Judge Kalbfleisch explained. Pedestrians without official missions, will be ordered indoors.

"Air wardens, auxiliary police and others charged with enforcing dim-out rules will be instructed to be 'tough' in carrying out their lessons," the coordinator declared, "as the public must be taught right now that there is a real need for compliance. We are not playing a game, we are at war."

Kalbfleisch expects that early in the new year state defense council officials will come here to aid in preliminary dim-out arrangements.

URGES DEATH

Legislator to Propose Extreme Penalty for Faulty War Goods.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Life imprisonment or death will be proposed in the new congress as the maximum penalty for persons convicted of wilfully manufacturing and delivering inferior or defective materials for the nation's armed forces, Rep. Hobbs (D., Ala.) said today.

Such a crime now is punishable only under the fraud statutes, with maximum penalties running to two years imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both, on conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States, and 10 years imprisonment, $10,000 fine or both, for consummation of such a fraud.

"Shooting is too good for a person who would do such a thing," Hobbs declared.

Supreme Court Says 'Foreign Soldier' Suits Can Be Postponed.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio courts may, at their discretion, postpone trial of a civil action involving a member of the armed forces of a foreign country, the Ohio supreme court has decided.

The federal soldiers and sailors civil relief act provides the same protection for those in the United States armed forces.

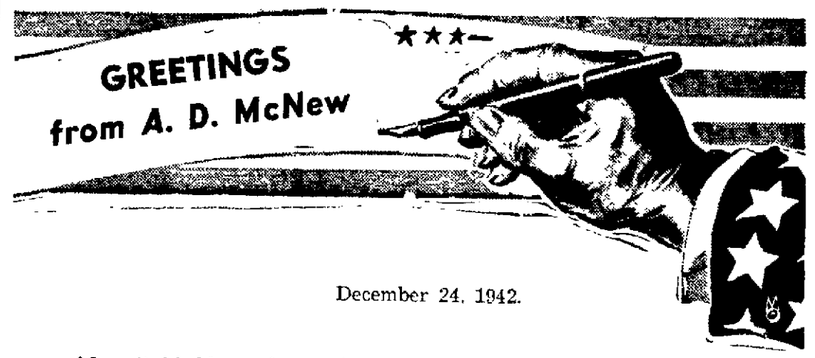
GREETINGS
from A. D. McNew



December 24, 1942.

Mansfield News-Journal:

We take this method to extend to you and staff a very Merry Christmas and prosperous New Year. We also extend our greetings to all patrons and friends that have made it possible for us to serve them another year. We extend our most sincere wishes to all service men that are serving our country on land and sea. Nothing would please me better than to be able to send each of them a personal greeting, but time and expense will not permit me to do so. I am taking this method to send them greetings at this season.

It is true we cannot all be well and prosperous but we can and should be thankful that we are living in a land so great and glorious as the U. S. where man is free to live his own life as he would wish and where he is free to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. And now dear Comrades, I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year not only for this year but for many to come.

Threaten to Trap Million Axis Troops as Ukraine Drive Aims at Kharkov.

must give back to humanity the dignity given to it by the creator," he said.

In North Africa, a pre-Christmas lull appeared to have settled over the Libyan front.

Latest reports put British vanguards within 160 miles of Tripoli as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army continued its pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch broke the news of the arrival of the first American forces in Dakar, symbolizing the addition of that vital French West African port to the list of Allied bases on the Dark Continent.

On the Tunisian front, Allied and Axis patrols sharply increased their activities in the muddy hills before Tunis and Bizerte, perhaps signalling an early renewal of the conflict.

Italian headquarters said Allied troops attacked in an attempt "at capturing lost positions," but declared they were stopped by Axis resistance.

Allied troops went into action against the Axis on a small scale at three points southwest of Tunis, dispatches said, while French forces under Gen. Henri Honore Giraud were reported to have driven the Italians from positions near Pont Du Fahs, 30 miles south of Tunis.

Other developments in the world struggle:

AIR WAR—Allied fighters and bombers attacked trains and other railway targets in northern France, Belgium and western Germany during the night, the London air ministry reported.

An Italian communique said Allied planes also raided "in the neighborhood of Naples" and bombed the island of Lampedusa, between Sicily and Tunisia.

NEW GUINEA—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced American and Australian troops had breached Japanese fortifications "in many places" and declared that the enemy's situation "must now be regarded as desperate."

BURMA—RAF fighter planes, blazing a path for Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's British columns advancing from India, attacked Japanese installations at Rathedaung on the Mayu river yesterday, a British communique said, and Wellington bombers followed up with a night assault on enemy airdromes.

Report Laval Plans To Aid Nazis in Africa

ANKARA —(U.P.)— (Delayed)— Well informed neutral sources said today that Pierre Laval had agreed, subject to the approval of Marshal Henri Petain, to send four divisions of French "volunteers" to aid Adolf Hitler in Russia and to turn over the physical equipment of the French army and navy to the Germans.

Laval, bringing France into ever closer collaboration with the Axis, has conferred with Hitler and Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano.

Under the agreement, it was said, Germany after taking over the equipment of the French army and what is left of the French navy will repay France for its losses after the war.

Other provisions of the Laval-Hitler agreement, it was said, were:

1. Anti-aircraft guns all over France will be manned by units of the French army under German command in an attempt to inflict heavier damage on Anglo-American raiders against occupied Europe.

2. German technicians will direct the work in French munitions factories and will have charge of French food distribution.

3. French labor laws will be changed to permit longer working hours for women.

4. France will send 300,000 specialists to work in German factories.

5. There will be a campaign to place all persons opposing Franco-German collaboration into concentration camps.

Reveal Raids Smashed 40 Italian Factories

LONDON — (U.P.) — Royal Air Force bombers in four heavy raids between Nov. 28 and Dec. 9 seriously damaged 70 important Italian industrial factories and workshops, including 10 Fiat airplane plant units at Turin, the air ministry announced today.

The communique, the first official British report detailing destruction by the RAF in a series of attacks on the "soft underbelly" of the Axis, said about an acre of the state arsenal was destroyed.

"Many industrial plants were gutted completely and others were so seriously damaged that they seem to be out of commission," the communique said.

Pope Cites Danger In Holiday Message

LONDON — (U.P.) — Pope Pius XII, broadcasting a Christmas message and blessing to the Christian world today, asserted the church would not take part in the war although it is not deaf to the world situation, but declared "a new danger has arisen—the subordination of everything to politics and the heresy of a national state which subordinates all to human law."

As "custodian of natural and supernatural order," his Holiness said he "must ask observance of those rules on which human life is based and on which any new order in the world must be built."

The world desires peace, the Pope said.

This peace must be not only an external peace among the nations of the world, but internal peace," he added. "Inside each nation there must be unity and love."

At one point the Pope said the church has always condemned Marxist Socialism and today it reaffirms that statement."

His message, in reply to the Cardinals' annual Christmas greeting, was broadcast by the Vatican radio.

The Pope said he could not conceal his deep, impartial love for the Italian people.

Earlier he stated his speech would be devoted to "the internal policy of all nations and peoples, without taking sides."

"Order and security must inspire confidence of the peoples," he said. "The aim must be not to dominate, but to serve."

He said "the church cannot ignore the fact that the worker is still fighting against some machinery which is not a natural obstacle, but an obstacle erected by other human beings. The worker must be assured of some private property, especially a father with a big family."

He declared the church must fight against these barriers, appealing to a better society and an end to "this very sad period of anguish."

ILL 2 MONTHS

James Lowery, 72, Dies At Home In New London.

NEW LONDON — James Lowery, 72, resident of New London for the past four years, died Wednesday night at his home here. He had been ill two months.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. Harry Byrd, Mansfield. Burial will be in Grove Street cemetery, New London.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Cynthia Lowery; four daughters, one son, and four grandchildren.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Accused of falsifying an application for supplemental gasoline rations, James Thomas Vinci, 23, was placed under $1,000 bond when he pleaded innocent before U. S. Commissioner B. D. Nicola to a charge of illegal possession of 455 "T" truck ration coupons good for the purchase of 2,275 gallons.

Knights Templar 'V' for Victory

Representing the "victory" theme of the Knights Templar order, two officers of Mansfield Commandery No. 21 and the daughter of a past commander pose with the big "V" used in the commandery Christmas service Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple. During a drill service, a curtain was drawn back to reveal this impressive scene. At the left is Walter Burrier, commander. A. F. Porter, commandery recorder, is at the other side of the "V". Holding a torch behind the figure is Miss Jane Senert, daughter of Henry A. Senert, past commander.

a-Christmas program last year also swelled the amount.

Organizations cooperating in the adoption of families included Friendly House, the American Legion, Catholic Charities, Beta Pi Mu sorority and girls of the Mansfield Telephone company traffic department.

The Give-a-Christmas baskets included a total of $300 worth of chickens and each one contained one, two or three fowls depending upon the size of the family. Other foods included potatoes, peas, celery, noodles, bread, oleo, jello-o, milk, cereal, oranges, grapes, apples, cookies, canned peaches and cranberries.

Contributions to the baskets included 100 pounds of candy donated by labor and management of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Local 17 shared in furnishing the candy also 71 novelty gifts for the baskets.

Chickens and hams went into 68 baskets distributed by the Volunteers of America. Twenty-five of this number were furnished through a $150 gift from the Dominion company. Each basket was worth $6, Capt. R. L. Gutterman said, and contained sufficient food not only for the holiday but the Sunday after Christmas.

Deliveries of Give-a-Christmas baskets were made to about 70 families unable to call at the Salvation Army citadel and two trucks for this service were donated by Wick Bowser, who made the deliveries in previous years. Mrs. Hoffman of the Salvation Army and Mrs. Bess Hynson of the Community Fund office checked the cards of the persons calling for baskets.

The number of baskets distributed by the Give-a-Christmas program this year were less by 200 than the number provided last year. Although 500 names comprised the original list presented to the Salvation Army clearing house investigation showed that 200 names could be eliminated because of employment.

Up until this year the Mansfield Community Fund served as a clearing house.

the world conflict between the Axis and the United Nations.

The party was held at the Japanese legation in Helsinki on Dec. 8.

The American government learned that the Finnish premier, Juho Rangell, and the foreign minister, Professor Witting, were among the Finnish leaders who attended the party. The Japanese showed moving pictures of the destruction of American warships at Pearl Harbor.

Furthermore, word reached American quarters in Helsinki that one of the Finnish government leaders congratulated the Japanese on their success against the American navy.

When Washington learned of this fact, the American minister in Helsinki, Arthur Schoenfeld, was immediately ordered home. He is now enroute to the United States, and there is reason to believe he is not likely to be returning to Finland in the near future.

The recall of Schoenfeld to Washington is intended as a warning to the Finnish government that the United States will not tolerate further breaches of her neutrality.

This is the second Finnish incident involving the Japanese that has displeased Washington. Last summer Finland bestowed on the emperor of Japan one of its highest honors, the grand cross of the order of the white rose, with chains.

War Correspondents Receive Yule Messages From AP Chief.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Associated Press war correspondents around the world were sent Christmas greetings today by General Manager Kent Cooper, who told them by radio their stories "have put iron into the veins of a fighting people."

Cooper said the correspondents "have the toughest, most dangerous—yet the most cherished jobs in AP" and asserted they had "broken down the great bugaboo of those who stay at home—no news."

DECLARES NAZIS ON DON DOOMED

Soviet General Reports Foe Has Lost Initiative and Is Unready For Winter.

way from Moscow to Stalingrad, on the trains, on the roads, in the trenches, all over the fighting front I have visited, where Russians, Ukrainians, Siberians, Tartars, Uzbeks, Kazakhs, Malmyks, 55 in all of Soviet Russia's plus-100 separate nationalities are taking part in the Stalingrad campaign.

I saw many starved, ill-clad, frost-bitten German prisoners, whose groveling attitude contrasted sharply with the cockiness most German prisoners showed at the front last year. They thought then that Germany was invincible. When I would ask one of them why he was fighting Russia he would say usually "we are fighting for greater Germany."

This year they say "we are soldiers and must fight for the defense of Germany."

I was struck also by the number of Russian girls, uniformed, with pistols on their hips, throughout the frontal zone up to the firing zone. I asked Gen. Christiakov about this.

"They are auxiliaries, nurses, telephonists, telegraphists, clerks, mes sworkers," he said. "Women appear less nervous than men under fire. At least that's my opinion."

Christiakov is typical of the young generals who have come to the fore by prowess in battle; they average under 45 years and many are under 40.

He is of medium height, chestnut haired, with gay blue eyes. He is a peasant origin. He was a worker until he entered the army as a private.

"I've gone through the whole mill myself and I think every officer should start out as a private," he commented. "Otherwise he can not understand his men and their problems."

Christiakov is naturally busy. He had promised me 90 minutes. The 90 minutes ended, I got ready to leave. He looked at his watch and protested:

"You've had enough of war. Let's have some dinner now."

We adjourned to another dugout and talked for two hours around a neat, cloth-covered wooden table laden with Russian hors d'oeuvres—sardines, meat paste, herrings, onions, white bread and the inescapable vodka.

After that came a surprisingly good three-course dinner, served by a young waitress—clear soup with meat balls, roast meat with rice, tea and sweet cakes.

glow of 1,000 candles will illuminate St. John's church for services today at 11 p. m. The majority of the other churches will also hold late services including St. Peter's whose midnight mass begins at 11:30 p. m.

Business will be practically at a standstill tomorrow in observance of Christmas. County, city and federal buildings will be closed. Mansfield industries will give their war workers a Christmas holiday. Maintenance only will be employed at most industries although the Ohio Brass company will retain a skeleton force to meet certain war production schedules.

County offices and several Mansfield stores will take advantage of the week-end holiday this year since Christmas falls on Friday. County offices will close today not to open until Monday morning. The same is true for a few Mansfield stores.

Retail stores close today at 6 p. m. as do postal windows at the Mansfield postoffice. The postal department that has extended its closing time the greater part of the past week will maintain delivery for Christmas packages all day Friday. "Specials" will also be delivered but no city or rural carrier will be maintained.

Its business doubled this holiday season by the tremendous volume of mail directed to the armed forces the postoffice department added 50 "extras" to its staff the past week to help facilitate the last-minute rush.

The community took care of its needy through the annual Give-a-Christmas program that supplied baskets to more than 300 families. Other organizations and individuals including churches, lodges and other civic and patriotic groups did their share to alleviate want and suffering. Wards of the state and county were remembered by gifts and patients of all Richland county hospitals received a tray favor from the Richland county council of the Junior Red Cross.

Holiday menus will be served to inmates of the county jail and Ohio State Reformatory. The 16 or more prisoners at the county bastile will feast on chicken, noodles, mashed potatoes, cranberries and other trimmings. Roast pork and dressing will top the menu at the Ohio State Reformatory. Mashed Irish potatoes, candied sweets, celery, beets and corn, minced pie, jello and coffee will be included in the bill of fare. As an extra treat ice cream and cake will be served at another interval during the day.

Christmas eve services will begin at 7:30 p. m. at the United Brethren church where two services will be held. The Young People's Bible class will meet under the direction of Ralph Mount before going caroling. Adult prayer services will be held at the same hour conducted by the pastor, Rev. James L. Boyer.

At 9:45 p. m. St. Paul Lutheran church will hold a carol-candlelight service. Junior and Senior choirs will lead the processional and Rev. Herman L. Gilbert will speak on the subject: "Little Things and God's Kingdom."

St. Matthews Lutheran church will hold candlelight services at 10:45 p. m. Rev. Charles F. Sheriff will give a Christmas message and a musical program will be given.

The Christmas service at 10:50 p. m. in St. Mark's Lutheran church will be divided into three parts, "Promise, Preparation and Prophecy Fulfilled." It will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Portz. Mrs. O. L. Geary will play carols.

St. John's candlelight service, when 1,000 candles will be lighted, will be held from 11 p. m. to midnight. Mrs. Helen Heston will give an organ program.

Msgr. R. C. Goebel will be celebrant of the midnight mass at St. Peter's Catholic church at 11:30 p. m. The choir, alumni and senior boys and grade school choristers will be heard.

Holy Communion will be administered at Grace Episcopal church at 1130 p. m. Rev. Glenn F. Lewis will conduct the service which will be preceded by an organ recital by Miss Louise Krause.

Main Street Evangelical choir will sing the cantata, "On Wings of Song," at a candlelight service at 11:30 p. m. Mrs. Dorothy Tingley will direct.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer will speak at the 11:30 p. m. service in First Lutheran church. His subject will be, "God Is With Us." Organ selections will be played.

The Christmas sermon in St. Luke's Lutheran church at 11:45 p. m. will be delivered by Rev. Herbert S. Garnes. A quarter hour choir and organ program will be presented.

Christmas day services will be held at St. Peter's at 8 a. m. and at 9:30 a. m., at Grace Episcopal church at 9 a. m., and at Main Street Evangelical church at 10:30 a. m.

The USES office will be closed Christmas day but will maintain regular hours on Saturday. Service stations of the Standard Oil company will also be closed Christmas day. Several will re-open in the evening. Other local filling stations are also expected to observe holiday hours.

In trying times like these, Christmas has a special significance. We extend to our host of friends and patrons our best wishes for a happy Yuletide, and health and well-being for 1943.
CRAFTON'S
C. H. CRAFTON LEO HAYS
Richland Trust Bldg.

Maybe it's because we here in America are so young that we eagerly cling to our holiday traditions . . . and a Merry Christmas IS an American tradition! The Christmas tree still brilliantly shines and children's voices softly sing, reaching to the four corners of the earth where dear ones join us in memory of other Yuletides. Bells that jingle merrily in Yankee Doodle towns ring clearly out across the star studded sky and echo loudly wherever the American flag flies. This is not a sad Christmas but a proud one . . . for each home that displays a service flag feels the true spirit of Christmas more deeply than in years gone by. To everyone we wish a Merry Christmas . . . and though our lights may be dimmed, the glow of these simple, cheery words will lighten hearts wherever heard. So again . . . Merry Christmas . . . that's the American way!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY DECEMBER 24, 1942.

Very sincerely, "A Merry Christmas to all."

Now it's hours—not days—that are left for Christmas shopping. Think again, have you forgotten anyone?

Christmas, Symbol of a Better Future

CHRISTMAS comes again to a war-torn world—the second in which our own country has been engaged in the present global strife. A more anomalous situation than is presented by contrasting the spirit of Christmas and the bloody butchery now going on in many parts of the world can scarcely be imagined.

For this year, and until peace has again come to the peoples of earth, Christmas seems more a symbol of human aspirations and divine intent than another milestone on the road along which countless millions have passed during the almost two thousand years since the birth of Jesus, the Babe of Bethlehem, which this holiday commemorates.

War has no place in the world picture as it is seen by those who find inspiration in the teachings of the Prince of Peace, nor do the common causes of wars fit into the ideals of human relationships which He promulgated.

It is almost ironic, at such a time as this, to repeat those familiar words, "Peace on earth, good will to men," yet, in the long look ahead, those words seem more possible of fulfilment, among more people in the world, than they have ever been before.

The forces against which our own people, and our associates of the United Nations, are now battling, are the enemies of everything for which righteousness has struggled for many centuries, and Wickedness is personified in the course of action taken by Hitler and his accomplices of the Axis powers.

Perfection has not been reached by the people of any nation, but the right of individuals and national groups to continue their efforts to progress toward a higher plane of civilization is now being challenged, and it is for the preservation of these rights that liberty-loving people are sacrificing, and suffering, and dying.

A hope at this Christmastime may be that children will have opportunity to enjoy it and that their elders may find in its significance a bright ray of hope for achievement of the purposes of America in this war—that the freedoms of mankind may not be lost and that the beacon light that has shone through almost twenty centuries shall not be dimmed.

Drinking Habits of Service Men

SO MUCH emphasis has been placed, in recent months, on the matter of stopping the sale of intoxicants in the vicinity of military camps and training places that the outcome of a survey on the drinking habits of service men is interesting, and may also allay the fears of some parents.

According to Representative James W. Wadsworth, one of the authors of the selective service act, America's new army is less alcoholically inclined than any other in the world. In an article in Collier's magazine he says that only 57 out of every 100 of the soldiers drink anything alcoholic at any time, and that 34 of these confine themselves to beer. Nine out of each 0 admit taking a drink of hard liquor occasionally, le ng only 14 per hundred who are regular imbibers of liquo.

These percentages are said to be approximately the civilian average and may reflect pre-induction tendencies of men now in the service.

In an editorial comment on this subject the Columbus Dispatch says: "Statistics and the army's own observations alike confirm the fact that—by and large—the fellow who is industrious and sober as a civilian stays the same way as a soldier, and that it is the confirmed lush who goes to the guardhouse for drunkenness more often than anyone else."

Those Friendly Christmas Cards

ONCE UPON A TIME there was an idea that sending Christmas greeting cards was a passing fad that would soon dwindle out—but nothing of the sort happened and more Christmas cards were carried in the mails this year than ever before.

There was a reason for this—the fact that so many men are away from home in military service and that greetings are sent to them by relatives and friends—but the fact remains that the practice of sending holiday greetings has been gaining in recent years, rather than diminishing. Each year there are some persons who firmly aver: "I'll send no cards next Christmas," but if they stick to the idea they usually regret it when the next Christmas comes along and the postman brings the customary grist of greetings from local and out-of-the-city friends.

Some of the cards are elaborate and costly, others are attractive and of moderate cost, and some are plain and inexpensive—even a few lines written on a penny postcard—but each brings a friendly and appreciated message of remembrance and kindly wishes.

The arrival of Christmas cards has come to be a pleasant part of the several days preceding the holiday. This has become a custom that cannot be easily abandoned.

'No Shinplasters!' Morgenthau Edict

WHEN Secretary Morgenthau made his recent pronouncement, "No shinplasters!", some of the younger folks may not have recognized the word. He was referring to the paper currency used during the Civil war to replace nickels, dimes and quarters.

Metal for minting was scarce then as now, and local communities tried to make good the lack by issuing paper tokens, good for three, five, ten cents and up. They were a great nuisance, were easily counterfeited or spoiled, and proved a costly experiment. Yet they continued to provide most of the country's currency for retail purposes till the passage of the Bland-Allison Silver act of 1878.

The government says that $15,000,000 of this currency is still unaccounted for, of which it is estimated that $2,000,000 may be in private collections. The rest is either lost, or else survives in some forgotten nook.

The Revolutionary war had its shinplasters, too, and found them equally detrimental. Today it is hoped to avoid them. That is why Secretary Morgenthau has condemned a scheme of the Boise, Ida., Merchants' association to use paper one-cent pieces. The motive is patriotic, but the idea isn't good.

Seven-Part Stabilization Program

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of four articles on Economic Stabilization. The series was prepared by the Office of War Information to explain, in simplest terms, the government program for economic stability.)

THE United States government is working to bring about economic stabilization through a seven-part plan.

When we talk about economics, a lot of people stop listening. They think economics is something that belongs to the colleges and the professors.

That's wrong. It's more wrong than ever, now that the country is at war.

Economics belongs to everybody. It belongs to every man that has a dime, every man that has a want, every man that has a loaf of bread.

A boy sells a toy for a nickel. That's economics. The boy spends the nickel for six pieces of candy. Economics. We order a billion dollars worth of bombers. More economics.

Everybody knows what stabilization means. And economic stabilization is just this: The boy gets six pieces of candy for his nickel today, tomorrow, next month. We get as many bombers for our billion in January as we did last March.

Well, suppose we haven't got economic stabilization. What then?

Most likely: Inflation.

Why?

There are 134 million people in the United States. All have appetites. Appetites for food, of course. And appetites for clothes, homes, radios, fur coats, kidde banks, silk stockings, and all those things that make life so comfortable and so American. But a fighting country can't spare time, material or machines to make most of those things. Half of our manufacturing today is making things for war. In addition, we must help feed, clothe and equip our allies in Africa, Asia, Australia and other places—no matter who they are and where they are. The first half of our why, then, is less material than we want.

Meanwhile, more Americans are working, at better wages, than ever before. They have the power—dollars—to buy more than ever before. So the second half of our why is more buying power.

"LESS GOODS, plus more buying power, produces inflation. People with more money than they have had before will bid up prices of scarce articles. That tendency produces inflation. In gold-rush days hungry Alaskans with large bags of gold bid up the price of ham and eggs to $50 a plate.

This up-bidding is only the beginning of inflation. As prices rise, workers demand more pay. Manufacturers of goods bid up wages to get the men they need. This increases as more men go into the armed forces. And to pay these wages, manufacturers raise prices. Farmers, losing workers to the services and to the manufacturers raise wages. They raise wages if they are sure they can get higher prices. If they aren't sure, they close their farms and go to work in factories. That makes farm produce scarcer. The scarcer farm produce is, the higher prices go.

History has a lesson here: in every period of inflation, wages have never kept up with prices. And, of course, pension payments, insurance returns and interest revenue remain where they were.

Inflation is a dizzy ride.

The government, therefore, wants economic stabilization. How it hopes to bring that about is no secret. There are seven controls—seven brakes on the inflation roller-coaster. President Roosevelt explained them to congress last April 28. The seven main controls are:

1. Heavy taxation to pay war costs and reduce spending by every person.
2. Price ceilings for foods, goods and rents.
3. Stabilization of wages and salaries.
4. Stabilization of agricultural prices.
5. Increased savings through buying of war bonds.
6. Rationing of scarce goods to insure fair distribution.
7. Discouragements of the use of credit or installment buying and the encouragement of the payment of debt.

The Greatest Gift

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO IT'S CHRISTMAS EVE and you're wrapping up the last of your bundles. Gorgeous bundles—scarlet, silver and blue, jade, amethyst and gold. Lovely things inside. Things that have dented your pocket book. Yet I wonder how many of them have dented your heart.

Queer question to ask on Christmas Eve?

No, not so queer.

We've twisted our Christ's birthday oddly—we who bear His name. He gave just one, plain gift to all mankind . . . His life. We give so many costly gifts to those we know for divers reasons. Gifts that hold nothing in them of ourselves—or that tall soul whose endless friendliness spread out from Calvary.

Gifts that, for all their cost, mean merely social obligation . . . gifts that display our standing to the strangers we'd impress . . . gifts that are part of a long, boresome chain of give-and-take.

You sit and look upon them on the table now. Such gorgeous bundles—scarlet, blue and jade. Crammed full with costly loot of frill and fuss.

YET WHICH, OF ALL THOSE BUNDLES, HOLDS YOUR HEART?

Which will give strength or comfort to some grieving soul?

Which will endure through frightful days ahead to keep flickering faith from going dark?

Which will, in reverent truth, observe our Lord's birthday?

And which will prove but useless, costly clutter when the day is gone?

No, I'm not preaching against giving. I think it is a happy, healthy habit.

BUT FOR THE SAKE OF THOSE WHO GIVE AS WELL AS THOSE WHO GET, I THINK WE SHOULD WRAP PART OF OUR OWN HEARTS WITHIN EACH GIFT WE GIVE.

For there's no gift if it is only something that we SEND.

A gift is only potent if it carries something that we GIVE.

It does not matter if it costs a quarter or five thousand dollars—it only means as much as the warm friendliness it holds.

He gave so much, that Baby born in straw two thousand years ago. He gave so much, He changed the human dream. And yet—He had no money. No smart clothes. No coins to jingle in His "seamless robe." He passed from life as simply as He came—with only love and faith to mark His brief, bright trail.

AND YET TODAY, AROUND THIS BLOOD STAINED SPHERE, THE YOUTH OF ALL THE WORLD FIGHT IN HIS MEMORY! IT MATTERS NOT THEIR COLOR OR THEIR CREED—IT MATTERS ONLY THAT HE SHOWED THE WAY TO LIVE!

AND PROVED THE ONLY GLORY WAS—TO GIVE.

Gorgeous bundles on the table before you tonight . . . scarlet, silver and blue, jade, amethyst and gold. Lovely things inside them too. Things that have cost you days of work . . . dented your pocket book.

WHICH ONE DENTED YOUR HEART?

WHICH ONE SHARES YOUR LIFE WITH SOMEONE BEREFT?

Everywhere

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

Oh, do you long to see the little King . . .
To glimpse His face and touch His baby hand?
Then swiftly come with me that I may bring
You to the Christ that dwells in every land.

He lives in every child it seems to me;
The ragged newsboy in the bitter street;
The hungry children far across the sea,
The wee ones in their cradles snug and sweet.

Oh, hasten to the streets where children dwell
In poverty, and see the eager eyes;
And you will find a story, too, to tell
Of Stars, and Wisemen under wondrous skies.

Oh, seek Him always everywhere you go!
Let faith, and love, and goodness shepherd you;
And you shall find Him, oh, I surely know!
And hear, I think the angels singing too.

Christmas Amid Din of Battle As Well as In Quiet Homeland

—By J. C. OESTREICHER

TOMORROW IS CHRISTMAS. In New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit and Dallas.

And also in Guadalcanal.

Millions of Americans, hungry for news of their men on the fighting fronts, were rewarded today with dispatches from London, from Australia, from the Middle East and other areas where communications are rapid, telling how amidst war, time was found for religious observances and the feasting that mean Christmas.

But there now are sixty-five separate real or potential battlefronts where United States troops are stationed and in all the oceans and seas of the world there are ships and men beneath the Stars and Stripes.

Many of these lie far outside the ordinary communication lines. It will be weeks before anyone knows how Christmas was spent on Canton and Johnston islands in the mid-Pacific, at Gabon in French Equatorial Africa or Suva in the Fijis.

But this much is certain—every commanding officer of every last unit in America's far-flung army, navy and air force will do whatever little may lie in his power to see that the day goes not unobserved, and perhaps not without its celebration.

It is a tribute to the splendid work of the quartermaster corps of the United States armed services that in most of the battle areas there will be turkey, with cranberry sauce and trimmings. For months, the noble bird has been shipped, tinned or frozen, to the fighting fronts and it will be an unhappy cook on sea or land who lacks the giblet gravy for the men he feeds. Army and navy cooks are like that.

There will be no let-up in the fighting on any front this evening or tomorrow, when Catholic and Protestant chaplains will say mass and hold service amidst the din of battle. For the Japanese know no Christ and worship only their emperor, while Adolf Hitler long ago expunged Christianity from the framework of the German Nazi state.

American Morale High In Africa, Air Power Big Factor In Success

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CAIRO—Staff officers at headquarters of the Ninth American Air Force in Cairo have a glint in their eyes these days. It's a dead giveaway for the satisfaction they feel over the fine contribution Uncle Sam's airmen are continuing to make to the British offensive against Rommel.

I dropped in on Brig. Gen. Victor H. Starm, chief of staff to Major Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the U. S. air forces in the Middle East and India to inquire whether the flag still flew.

"You bet," he retorted. "Our units are doing a grand job along with our Royal Air Force colleagues. Our morale is top hole. It can't be beat."

Now that's strong mustard, but it's first class testimony from a man who is familiar with the fighting game from battle experience. Of course, you don't need any introduction to this distinguished ace of World war I who hails from Bowling Green, Ky.

Since the Allied air forces have kept a constant and devastating contact with the fleeing enemy thus far, I asked General Starm whether any individual crews had made any sorties as they did in the big show at El Alamein, where the Axis rout started.

"We are making many," he replied, "but our men stand up firm. Their morale is at its peak and they are itching to go."

THE GENERAL paused and grinned. "Thanksgiving day out in the desert I saw an example of the frame of mind they're in. Some members of a South African air unit came over to visit us and they arrived in an armored car. Our boys immediately wanted to know what it was like to be under fire in such a car. So, a few at a time, they shut themselves up in the machine while everybody else cut loose at it with pistol shots.

"Now that's a small incident but it indicates contented minds. Our morale is just so good that there's nothing you could say about it that would be exaggeration."

"What part would you say that air power has played in the Eighth army offensive?" I asked.

"Air power has been one of the chief factors in our success," he replied, "and it has been our good fortune to have a share in this along with the RAF.

"It has happened that in the category of heavy bombers we have formed a major bombardment force because of the nature of our equipment. We have concentrated on port facilities and sea communications. For example, after the Eighth army reached Bengasi we made repeated attacks against the Axis port of Tripoli which had been one of their chief supply bases.

"Among our major targets have been gasoline depots and tankers and we certainly raised the devil with them. The result has been that the activities of the Axis airforce have been heavily restricted because of lack of gas.

"Our medium bombers and fighters also have done excellent work in support of the Eighth army, especially in bombing and machine-gunning enemy motor transport and troops during the retreat. There has been no glamor about this job. It has just been steady slugging.

"The famous Royal Air Force Shark squadron has been attached to our fighters, and this combination is now one of the crack fighter units of the whole desert.

"Back of this effort of course is service and supply to keep the airplanes flying. British cooperation in this service has been superb. At first we were entirely dependent on them and we still have to rely on them to some extent.

"I haven't the words to describe the whole-heartedness of this cooperation. Never once have the British turned down an appeal from us, and they have gone all out to service us.

"But there is more than that to the co-operation. When our men first arrived in the desert they were great fliers but without practical experience in fighting. So the British taught us combat work. The RAF put us through actual combat training. They first broke in one pilot. Then they added others gradually until we had reached a squadron. Now of course our own veterans do our training, but our first combat and operational schooling came from the British.

"Naturally relations between the two forces are extremely cordial. All the big personalities seem to click and the men get along fine."

I asked the general what he considered was our greatest contribution to the Eighth army victory.

"Destruction of land and sea communications," he said. "The show has turned mainly on communications and supplies."

Christmas Tribute

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MERRY CHRISTMAS is a good deal of mockery this year. Many of us are lonely for loved ones far away, to say nothing of our anxiety about their safey and comfort. In a land where our forefathers came in order to live their own lives untouched by the ancient quarrels of Europe and Asia and which they turned, by their industry and resourcefulness, into a land of plenty, we are suffering privations in our daily lives which, so far as we can see, we do not deserve.

The world into which Christ was born to bring peace and love for all mankind has turned into an armed camp with most of our energy directed towards making instruments of death and destruction.

Pride in the Profession.

In the whole sorry scene the ones I can think of with the most pride and respect are the men and women of my own affiliated professions—the nurses, the nurse aides, the Red Cross workers, staff assistants, the doctors, dentists, veterinarians all over the world.

Of course, this Christmas I am thinking mostly of the fellows I saw go marching off. There is little Bill. I've known him ever since when. I saw him on the train going to California this spring. With his eager, boyish face and figure adorned by the uniform of a lieutenant commander in the navy, head of a hospital unit. It seemed impossible that he was entrusted with such responsibility. But I heard from him the other day. The hospital has set up shop somewhere down under and is probably doing a rush business.

Then there is another Bill who is somewhere across blue water, leaving his wife and two babies here at home alone. One of them wants to know if Daddy is mad at them because he doesn't come to see them. Well, Daddy is going fine surgery wherever he is, and I watched him grow into a fine surgeon.

Others Doing Fine Work.

Tom is another who has never seen his baby, who was born last month.

And Ed, and Max, and Joe, and Jim and Mahlon, somewhere in England.

That gang in San Diego—if they are still there. We used to practice side by side with them and they pulled up stakes and made plenty of sacrifices.

Then there's Humpty learning to get used to a temperature of 120 day after day.

Merry Christmas to you, comrades. Wherever you are we know you are doing your duty and holding the faith of the profession to heal friend and enemy alike with equal skill. You, at least, represent the doctrines of the Christ who was born in Bethlehem of Judea 1,942 years ago.

CEREMONY AT FLORIDA NAVY BASE UNITES GALION COUPLE

GALION — The marriage of Marcia Lucille Eichler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Eichler, 239 North Market street, to Calvin "Jack" McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDonald of southeast of Galion, which took place Friday evening, Dec. 18, in Pensacola, Fla., is being announced today.

An impressive double-ring ceremony was read by Chaplain Embry in his parsonage at the Naval Air station, Pensacola.

The former Miss Eichler was wearing a white wool frock, with gold trimming and accessories in black. Talisman roses were used in her corsage.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Shoppett, the best man being a mate of the bridegroom in the hospital corps.

Mrs. Shoppett was attired in beige with autumn brown accessories, and her corsage was made of red roses.

Going south several weeks ago, the bride first visited her brother, Melvin Eichler, who is stationed in the Army air corps at Love field, Dallas, Texas. She was graduated from Galion high school in 1938 and until recently was employed as bookkeeper at the United Plumbing supply store in Galion.

Before his enlistment in the navy last summer, McDonald was employed at the First National bank in Galion. He was graduated from Iberia high school and attended the Mansfield Business college.

One of the songs Mrs. Jameson will sing will be a transcription by Ben Johnson from the old English of Chaucer entitled, "Have You But Seen a Whyte Lillie Grow?" composer of the selection is unknown.

For the gypsy songs Mrs. Jameson will portray a gypsy telling about her life. Four numbers will be included in this group.

An appropriate costume coming from China will be used for the Chinese period.

Garden Club Has Christmas Party At Gross Home

Original and unusual Christmas decorations made by Mrs. Wilmer Gross, were used at the Christmas dinner party of the Royal Regal Garden club, which was held at her home, 93 Dawson avenue Tuesday evening.

A Christmas tree was used and a Madonna figure was placed on the radio in front of sansevieria leaves. At the foot of the figure were sprays of white chrysanthemums. The ceiling and chandelier were made to represent a tower. Wall board on the ceiling was painted in blue and white, with silver stars and on the chains of the chandelier were silver bells. Festoons of shimmery white cellophane hung from the ceiling.

The buffet was attractive in white candles and baskets of fruit and pine cones, colored lights, and silver with two large silver birds. The centerpiece of the table at which 25 members and guests were served by candlelight, was a mirror with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and red carnations. Streamers of green were extended from lighted tapers to the ends of the table. Favors were individual miniature Christmas wreaths with tiny silver bells and red bows.

The Christmas program included a story, "Why the Chimes Rang," by Mrs. Gross. At the point in the story where the chimes rang, concealed chimes were heard from a distance. William Gross presented two solos. They included "The Infant Jesus" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mr. Gross was accompanied by Miss Ann Klippel at the piano. A paper was given on "The Christmas Rose" by Mrs. Harry Kaser.

A gift exchange was held. Guests at the dinner were Mrs. William Gross and Miss Klippel. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Burt Campbell and Mrs. M. J. Cairns. Mrs. Cairns will entertain at the Jan. 5 meeting at her home, 512 Harter avenue, with a covered dish dinner.

There Are Good Uses for Old Greeting Cards

What do you do with the greeting cards you receive?

A recent psychological survey reveals that most people keep them, at least for a while. Some people have made a custom of displaying them, especially after Christmas or a birthday, justly proud that each greeting represents the good wishes of a friend. Cards that have a special sentimental significance are likely to be tucked away with other precious souvenirs. And once in a while you receive a greeting card so beautiful that it's well worth framing.

But eventually, many greeting cards have to be disposed of. Don't just throw them away. There are institutions and organizations that want them, that will put them to good use.

The children's wards of hospitals will be delighted with batches of old greeting cards. So will nurseries and foundling homes. In fact, any place where children must be entertained. The greeting cards are perfect for cut-outs and scrapbooks.

Out in Eureka, California, a women's organization has sent out a broadcast call for old greeting cards to be made into scrapbooks as their first step in the child welfare program which is being set into motion all over the country. Perhaps you can contribute to a similar movement.

In addition, greeting cards that have scenes suitable for framing or that are otherwise adaptable would undoubtedly be welcome in the craft shops of charitable institutions.

If you take the trouble to distribute in some such fashion the greeting cards you must discard, you'll earn the satisfaction of sharing with others the joy the cards brought you.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

I went out of the telephone ooth with renewed respect for arry Underwood's alertness of ind, and to Gus I spoke almost ider my breath.

"Thank you, Gus, for reminding e. "Do you see anybody in here ho will bear watching?"

"No, nobody," he said.

"Then I'll do my shopping here" said, and went through my list ith gratifying speed, as the clerk as alert and helpful. I had all e items made into one bundle th a handle, for I knew Gus ould have to carry the bundles om the haberdasher, so I should ve to take this one.

Gets Haberdashery.

At the haberdasher's I first ught the socks, underwear and ndkerchiefs for immediate use, my father had specified. To the lpable boredom of the salesman, io assured me that all their ods were guaranteed as sanity. I insisted upon seeing the oels before having those items t into one parcel with a handle, iich I handed to Gus. Then I :ked out an expensive necktie Georges, which I carried myf, and finally made the other rchases on the list.

The salesman lost his bored atude, as he realized the size of e order, and we completed the rchases in what was really rec- time. The salesman seemed onished at my request that all rchases be done up in as small mpass as possible, but the packwas done as requested.

But Gus carried three huge kes when we left the store, and mbled because I insisted upon rrying the pharmacy parcel and smallest one from the haberdhery.

"I really prefer to carry them, s." I said firmly. "I'll have to ry them into the hotel anyway, my father will not want you to ve the car."

"I have to do as you say, your her tells me," he said, "but I n't like it."

"I know you d... Gus," I said, ognizing his chivalrous loyalty, id I appreciate your offer. But eally am not over-burdened, so ppose we walk a little faster."

"Okay," he answered, and in a minutes we were at the gae where we had left Joe. Then heard their exchange of an eed password, and knew the er had seen no suspicious percome into the garage.

"Put all your bundles into the nk, please, and lock it," I inicted Gus. Later, when we 're out on the street, I gave him father's direction to take those dles into the hideaway and 're them there.

"All right, I fix everthing," Gus ined, but as we neared the el he seemed to be in troubled ght, and I could almost see wheels in his head go round. inally he leaned forward and softly: "Missis Graham, I so et. I think there going to be trouble in hideaway. You tell your father something, please, if I tell you now?"

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XVIII

"Of whom?" Oh, of—of her!" Her contemptuous look moved to Dina, moved away. "Certainly we should," she agreed sharply, "but not at a cost of his career, his whole life! During the Christmas holidays, while we were at Palm Springs, we met the Worthingtons—you know the Philadelphia Horsworth Worthingtons; she was Miriam Horsworth. Kathryn, the daughter, goes to Selwyn's in Virginia—well, that neither here nor there. But she's simply devoted to him, has asked him down for the Easter holidays—all that. It would have been simply ridiculous for him to come west with me now. What was he supposed to have done if he had?"

"He might have married the mother of his child," Rogers answered simply.

"Oh, well!" Caroline Holland said with a sniff. The sniff said plainly, "I don't believe one word of it!" Aloud she said, "Oh, I know you have some letters of his, and hers which I've kept. But Orkman says there's not one whit of evidence there. I'm sorry, I'm wretched over the whole thing. But that isn't the way out. We'll have." Vere's mother went on in a lowered, reasonable tone, "to make provisions, and you'll have"—she glanced at Dina again—"you'll naturally make whatever arrangements seem good to you. But mind you, Rogers, I don't for one moment assume any responsibility. Neither does Vere's father. 'I'll ship the boy to South America first,' Van said."

"And what did Vere say to that?"

"My heart ached for him. He kept saying, 'I can't believe it. I can't believe it!' And when I was leaving, poor boy—bothered with his studies and worrying about whether he can keep up or not—he said over and over: 'Whatever you say is right I'll do, Mother. I'll do whatever you say'."

"So that if you said he had better come west and be married, you think he would?"

Mrs. Holland held her head high, looked into space.

"Which of course I wouldn't!" she said firmly.

"You don't think that's his duty?"

"I don't think that would be for the happiness of anyone concerned. Not for yours or his," she said to Dina: your lives have been completely different: your backgrounds are different: It's too bad, but it can't be helped."

"So that you think the situation had best be left as it is," Rogers said Mrs Holland bridled, spoke in an affronted tone.

"Not at all. Although I can understand you want to make me out absolutely hardhearted about it!" she added with a resentful glance. "I think that it has happened before—it is always happening—and the only thing to do is keep it quiet and—help out, of course.

"But even if I were convinced that it is actually true," she went on, "which I am not. I would feel that to wreck two lives is worse than—than wrecking one!"

Dina had sat absolutely still during this conversation, her face very pale, her eyes moving from Rogers' face to that of Mrs. Holland, moving solemnly back again Now suddenly she spoke.

"I—I would try to make Vere a good wife, Mrs. Holland," she said. "If—if I could see him, if I could talk to him—" her voice faltered to silence.

"I'm afraid that's impossible," Vere's mother said decisively. "He's borne enough about it all! And this—I had this telegram this morning, Rogers," she added, taking a folded yellow paper from her bag. "I wasn't going to mention it, but now I think it's only fair to let you know. This was Van's idea, and while what I just said about keeping Vere in school was quite true, he isn't there now at all. They've left, he and young Worthington and a tutor; they sailed this morning."

Rogers took the telegram and read it aloud.

"'Boys off at nine Worthington family all present at dock to say good-bye. Confident this is best plan. Love to Mimi. Van'."

"So you see that's that," Caroline said nervously.

"I trust that as far as Vere and I are concerned the matter is settled," Vere's mother added, rising.

"It would seem so. But wait a minute; don't be in any hurry to go, Caroline," Rogers said. "I'm sure you'd be interested in hearing about our plans—mine and Geraldine's."

Caroline after a moment's sharp scrutiny, dropped back into her chair.

"I can't see that they concern me!" she said. But her voice and manner were uneasy.

"But they might interest you," Rogers said politely. "Geraldine and I," he went on with a smile for the girl who looked worn and white, shrinking back in her big chair, "are going to be married."

There was a silence. Dina looked at no one, but the eyes of Caroline and Rogers were fixed on each other.

"What are you talking about!" Caroline presently exclaimed. "I never heard such nonsense!"

"I felt you ought to know," Rogers assured her. She sat down again.

"I don't in the least understand what your objective can be in making such a remark, Rogers" Her tone was steel But there was still a hint of uneasiness in it

"I mean that there is to be another Mrs. Holland here very soon," the man said.

"You're joking!" Caroline said breathlessly.

"Not at all. I've been lonely here long enough. We need young blood in the family."

"Rogers," his sister-in-law said in a low tone, a tone changed suddenly from the angry and scornful one she had at first used to one of nervous appeal, "you can't do this! Think of the family. Think of the talk. Do anything you like—we'll all do anything you like," she began, "but not anything as—as ridiculous as this!"

"Well, Geraldine, I like that, don't you?" Rogers asked.

Dina was incapable of speech. She managed a frightened smile.

"Our marriage ridiculous?" Rogers echoed. "Why is it? What's ridiculous about it?"

"I'm not going to say anything more because I know you're not serious," Caroline said breathing quickly.

"I'm quite serious."

"You'll make yourself a laughing stock, Rogers!"

"Not any more than Aline, assisted by some dear women friends, has made me for twenty years. To be jilted twice by the same woman, I think that's a record for making an ass of one self," Rogers said.

"Aline discovered that she had made a mistake, that her feelings had changed; that's a natural thing for anyone to do," Caroline said hotly. "It has nothing whatever to do with your taking a step like this! Sacrificing your life to a ridiculous idea of gallantry or chivalry or I don't know what!"

"I'm forty-one, Caroline; quite a large slice of my life has been sacrificed already, with no particular purpose gained," Rogers reminded her mildly. "It seems to me it is Geraldine who is doing the sacrificing. A girl of nineteen—that's all she is, Caroline—coming in here to brighten up my old house. I assure you I feel quite rejuvenated at the thought of it."

"You'll not feel so rejuvenated when everyone begins to talk about you—and about her," Caroline countered angrily.

"Why should they talk?" the man inquired blandly.

"Why shouldn't they! You don't think I'm going to keep quiet about what I know just because you do?"

"It seems to me," the man mused, "that might hurt a boy of Vere's age more than a man of mine. After all, my property will go to my wife."

"Well, we'll see," Caroline muttered. But she was worsted; she was losing face and she knew it. "What will be said about Miss Cashman won't especially help her or you either," she added in a little spurt of viciousness.

"Then it will be said of my wife," Rogers said, his own anger rising to meet hers. "It will be said about my wife—and my child. That child will be a Holland after all, won't he? Go as far as you like, Caroline; say what you please. It won't reach Geraldine and me half as fast as it will you!"

Caroline Holland sat erect; a little stain of real color crept up under the artificial color that was so delicately added to her cheeks.

"I don't see any particular object in prolonging this," she presently said "I appreciate your attempt to bully me into doing what you wanted about this, Rogers, but it has failed. Good afternoon. If you really—if you really cheat Vere out of—but you won't! Let me know when you come to your senses!"

Neither Dina nor Rogers moved or spoke after she had gone until the crunch of her car wheels on the drive outside were heard. Then Rogers put his head down on his crossed arms and began to laugh deeply and noiselessly. When he raised his head Dina saw that his eyes were full of actual tears of mirth.

The car went on and on through an uncertainty of rain and of spring sunshine, on between the flat bay meadows that were rich with deep green grass, through the little towns whose corners were occupied by gas stations and marked by roadside signs.

"We're coming into Reno." Rogers said. "Ever been here before?"

"No. I'm going to be sick," said Dina, whose mouth was marked by lines of green.

He picked up the speaking tube; the car drew up beside the road.

"Get out and walk about a bit. You'll be all right."

Dina staggered to a fence, clung to it. The day was very warm and the spot happened to be completely unprotected; the sun beat down on her bare head.

"The Authority on Authorities"

RECOGNIZE YOUR GIFTS

What is the use of having a nice gift offered to you unless you can recognize it as what it is? Your opponent need not throw tricks your way by making the very play which helps you most. He may do nothing but give a signal or signals, telling his partner what he holds. But if you, too, pay heed to those signals, he may present you with information of such paramount value that you can go ahead and take the desired tricks with your own artifices.

That 4-Diamond bid by North, indicating much more than the minimum strength so far shown, was South's cue to bid the grand slam when he learned about the diamond A via the Blackwood convention. In the play, however, help was obtained from West which warned South not to depend on the heart finesse for the thirteenth trick.

The diamond 10 won the opening trick after West led the 5,

2 NT	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

and North's club honors took the second and third. The diamond J was an entry on the fourth, whereupon the spade A was cashed to prepare for a "Victory coup," formerly called the "Vienna coup," if South decided not to try the heart finesse. The club A, K and 10 followed, West giving high signals with spade 9 and heart 9 on them.

This decided the course of action for South, who knew West as one who would not try false carding. Placing both kings with West then, he went to dummy with the diamond 9 to the A and scored the K and Q. On the last of these he retained the spade Q and heart 8 in dummy and the heart A-Q in the closed holding. West was squeezed. If he tossed the spade K, the Q and the heart A would finish the hand. But he threw off the J from the heart K-J, whereupon the A dropped the K and the Q made the final trick.

Saturday's Problem.

If South bids 1-Spade on this deal, West doubles and North redoubles, what should East do?

HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 25

The season of good will and good cheer is being ushered in this year under a very auspicious and happy congeries of planetary forces and impulses, probably to an exceptional degree. All the conventional celebrations and functions are under high stimuli for the apex of enjoyment and prosperity.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year of much happiness, attainment and progress, with many benefits and experiences coming from unexpected or unusual sources. The most ambitious objectives may be sought for with a sense of satisfaction and security, impelled by an exciting breaking away from old static and crystallized conditions and limitations.

A child born on this day should be richly endowed with the talents forces and factors for outstanding success and happiness.

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 26

This is a day that may be considered solely as the aftermath of the joyous holiday functions and festivities, with little of interest to disturb the relaxation and normal reactions. There is possible danger from proclivities toward extravagance, irritabilities, or indulgence.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may not expect a year out of the routine or regular, unless they make an effort to drive into constructive channels latent energies trending to vexation, ill humor, rash, reckless and extravagant activities. Should irritability, turbulence, impetuosity and ill will predominate there may be opening for trouble, reprisals and regrets

A child born on this day should have fair talents and versatility, with sufficient energy to make practical progress, but tendencies to reckless, impulsive and extravagant conduct may incite trouble.

BOOK ON WORLD WAR II PLACED ON NEW LIST

'Free Men Are Fighting' Added To New Volumes at City's Public Library.

"Free Men Are Fighting" by Oliver Gramling, author of "A. P. —The Story of News," joins the new novels on shelves at Mansfield Public Library. As the title suggests, the book is the eye-witness story of World War II as reported by Associated Press correspondents over the globe.

They tell what they saw while it was happening. At least, three whose stories are included, perished in the tragedy they witnessed. Moving, dramatic and in the massacre of Poland and builds up tempo and intensity as the war spreads over the earth.

Dr. Frederick C. Irving's autobiography, SAFE DELIVERANCE, is the story of medical science's victory over pain and death at the time of childbirth. Here are the men, both European and American, who, over the generations, have contributed mightily to this victory. And, from his own wide-ranging experience, the chief of staff of Boston's Lying-In hospital draws many poignant stories.

BALCONY EMPIRE by Reynolds and Eleanor Packard is important background reading for everyone who wants to know what is going on inside Italy today and why it is psychologically—as well as geographically—the most logical place for an invasion of the continent of Europe. The former head of the United Press bureau in Rome, and his wife, the star reporter of the Rome staff, left Italy in June 1942.

CHRISTIAN EUROPE TODAY by Adolph Keller is a comprehensive survey of christianity as it exists both openly and in secret in a Europe torn by war. As a pioneer of the ecumenical movement from its inception, and as Director of the European Central Bureau for Relief, Dr. Keller has had access to sources of information available to but few. He takes the reader inside religious Europe today.

OTHER NON-FICTION: GOLDEN BOOK OF PRAYER—Aldrich; THE HAITIAN PEOPLE Leyburn; WE WHO BUILT AMERICA - Wittke; CREATIVE AMERICAN HUMOR 1800-1900 - Blair. UNITED STATES SERVICE SYMBOLS—Smith and Taylor; UNITED STATES CAMERA 1943; TRANSPORTATION AND DEFENSE - White; AMERICAN MERCHANT SEAMAN'S MANUAL—Cornell and Hoffman; NURSING CARE OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES; COKESBURY STUNT BOOK Depew.

HOSTAGES by Stefan Heym is a story of Prague under the Nazi terror—of a group of hostages who must face a firing squad for the death of a German officer. The executions would serve several Nazi ends; and intimidation through terror was only one. How the hostages managed their own retribution makes a narrative that draws the reader from one page to the next.

THE SHINING TREE by Lucille Papin Borden is a modern Christmas story which opens in New York's huge Pennsylvania railroad station. One December evening, an orphaned newsboy discovers a girl of six wandering bewilderedly about among a trainload of refugees from Manila. She is blind and dressed in rags, but her voice suggests breeding—and Tommy takes her to the boarding house which is his home. The climax comes on Christmas.- This touching story of Christian kindness ends with happiness and good fortune for all.

ONE DESTINY by Phil Stong tells of a small Iowa town at war, the kind of a town and the kind of people whom Phil Stong has made peculiarly his own. Particularly, it is the story of the Murdock family—Captain Mark, who had been in two previous wars, and his two sons -Johnny who was already a flier and Craig, who could not at present leave the vital farm work.

OTHER FICTION—THE PRODIGAL WOMEN by Hale; COME BACK TO WAYNE COUNTY by Fetzer; A DEED WITHOUT A NAME by Philpotts.

'CHEAP' MILLIONAIRE

ZURICH, Switzerland -- (AP) -- Statistics show 800 millionaires living in Zurich but the currency considerably affects the financial standing of the "millionaire." For instance, a Rumanian with 1,000,000 lei has the equivalent of $5,355.

TRUSTS MANKIND

ERWIN, Okla. -- (AP) — T. J. Hutchings has lived in the same house for 44 years and no door in the house ever has been locked.
